I Believe…

that technology could now help enhance and improve learning in schools that all students should receive equal opportunities in education that social class, sexuality, identity, race, and religion should not be a limitation in ones learning that all classrooms should feel comfortable and welcoming to all students

That education should be more than just worksheets and packages. More hands on learning should be encouraged that education should not be just based on the 'Euro Canadian' ways that students should have easy access for emotional support within the school that education is a lifelong journey that education is a process and should not be rushed. It is not a race since everyone have their own clock that educators should encourage all students to pursue their dreams and not "an investment in knowledge pays the best interest"
